Cognitive Processing Therapy Project Success Story

A component of the SAK Task Force is a partnership between the Shelby County Rape Crisis Center (RCC) and the University of Memphis to evaluate whether a therapeutic intervention, entitled Cognitive Processing Therapy (CPT), is effective for victims of sexual violence.

- A survivor came in for services presenting a very high score on a Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) Checklist (scored at a 59, where the threshold number for a provisional diagnosis of PTSD is 31).
- After the CPT intervention, the survivor has now been scored at only a 15 on the PTSD Checklist—a reduction of 75% of the symptoms—and is reporting significant improvement in life functioning and wellbeing.

The RCC is pleased with this success and are currently training four additional staff in this therapeutic intervention to better serve victims of sexual violence in our community.
